

Bright Ideas For Happy & Safe Living!

When installing lighting systems, choosing a bulb holder or a bulb socket is an important component. Bayonet-based or twist and lock holders are most prevalent in India and are known for being rugged and easy to replace.

IndoAsian offers two types of bulb holders that are specially designed to ensure years and years of maintenance-free service. They are moulded from a special polymer that is strong and shatter-resistant. IndoAsian bulb holders repel dust formation and have a high glossy finish that makes it very attractive.

They are also very safe as they have very high insulation properties. IndoAsian bulb holders are also precision-moulded, so that they form a snug connection with the bulbs, preventing any sparking or arcing from taking place.

Angle Lamp Holder

In this type, the holder and consequently the bulb gets angled downwards, to maximise light dispersion.

Batten Lamp Holder

Batten bulb holders are hard-wired to the wiring in your home, reducing the need of electrical cord. These bulb holders are also more flexible allowing for scaling or accommodating changes easily.

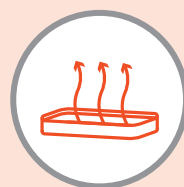

Ceiling Rose

IndoAsian's Ceiling Rose is moulded from a tough and lightweight bonded polyurethane material and is designed to look attractive, while making it easy to install light fittings.
